

2010 Franciscan Mission Service Missioners

† Catherine Giller, 46, was an FMS missionary in Bolivia in 2002, returning home early because of health problems. Originally from New Jersey, she was the ESL coordinator for the last five years for Jubilee Partners, a non-denominational Christian community helping to re-settle refugees in Comer, Ga.

† Clare Lassiter, 26, has lived in Virginia and St. Louis. She graduated from Belmont Abbey College with a B.A. in sociology. Throughout her undergraduate experience, she was involved with alternative spring break, participating in trips to the Dominican Republic, south Texas, and Mexico. She served a year with the Vincentian Volunteer program in St. Louis, working with individuals with severe and persistent mental illness and addiction issues. She then went on to work for the same organization.

† Tim and Cecilia Marcy were members of FMS' 19th class of lay missionaries, and served in Sacaba, Bolivia, from January 2004 to December 2006. Tim Marcy, 70, originally from Wisconsin, is an ordained deacon and has training in pharmacy from the University of Illinois and degrees in psychology and counseling from Loyola University and the University of North Dakota. His wife, also 70, from Chicago, has degrees in nursing from St. Anne Hospital School of Nursing, Jamestown University, and the University of North Dakota, as well as extensive experience in the field.

† Lynn Myrick, 56, grew up in Nashville, Tenn., and is married to Charles Joel Vaughn. She has degrees in English, a doctorate in Victorian studies, and a master's in theology. She worked as an English instructor for more than 20 years, an editor and writer for five years, and, most recently, served as the interim chaplain at Furman University. She has volunteered with a prison ministry, homeless shelter, and as a chaplain at a nursing home. She has traveled to England, Germany, Italy, Austria and Switzerland.

† Nora Pfeiffer, 25, of Fairfax, Va., has a B.A. in sociology and German and has studied in Germany, traveled throughout Europe, and volunteered in Mexico. As a Jesuit Volunteer in Arizona, she worked as a case manager in a Homeless Shelter for Families. Most recently, she worked as a residential case manager for formerly homeless single people with mental illnesses.

† Charles Joel Vaughn, 58, has lived in Nashville with wife, Lynn Myrick, and reared two children. He has a B.A. in modern European history from Rhodes College and a master's in English with a specialization in creative writing from Indiana University at Bloomington. He was an adjunct English composition instructor for six years before becoming director of the Instructional Media Center at Vanderbilt University Medical Center. He has volunteered with several organizations in Tennessee, including Room at the Inn Shelter and the Nashville Adult Literacy Council.
